“ The greatest memories are all the wonderful moments we shared together in High School, watching our kids grow together and supporting each other when the challenges of life became overwhelming. I have to thank God for placing you in my life. I admire your strength and the love you shared with everyone, bringing all of us together, whether it was at church, the beach.... It didn't matter because that 's what you were best at doing. Your energy made it easy to forget our troubles. You were such a strong and powerful woman, and that is how want to remember you. I'll love you forever my friend.
