“ Thanks to everyone for all the kind words, Condolences, and FLOWERS, and to hear if a Tree(s) is being planted as a living "memory" of my Daughter...very Heartwarming amidst the 'depth' of sorrow that lingers. I Dreamt of Neysa trying to comfort me, crying, the warmer Hug I ever got from her, more than when she hugged me alive and said Daddy, I am so tired, Missed. Daddy

“ I'm not really good with words but Neysa was my 'work wife'. We spent so many hours on the phone working and talking, sharing our lives with one another while living in different states. She listened and supported me in every good & bad decision. She lifted me up when I needed it and told me the truth when I didn't want to hear it. I always admired her strength and softness. I was so excited to finally meet her when she and Ne'Rya came to Dallas and stayed with with us while getting Ne'Rya's prom dress made. I love her and am truly going to miss her but I know God was with her every step of the way. Loving her and wrapping His comforting arms around her and her family. I'll see you again one day Neysa love, your work wife

“ Neysa, the chemistry was instant. I can't deny that it's either there or it isn't. I remember when we first met; I was leasing your apartment in Miramar, and we were both so young. I was pretending to be a lawyer, drafting up a legal contract to sublease your apartment, and you were meticulously reviewing it like a fine-toothed comb. I thought to myself, "OK, yeah, we're gonna hit it off well.

From that moment, you know, I've seen you on and off over the years, and every time we reconnected, like no time had past, it was always through the Kinya and Maxine, your besties. I love that relationship. I just felt like I automatically became one of your besties too, even though we didn't share the same experiences that you had with Kinya and Max. I just know that the admiration was there because I saw the love that you all had for each other. You were always so genuine, so kind, and so complimentary, and then so much fun.

I watched you struggle with this disease, and I saw the fight in you. It really saddens me that you lost the fight, but I know that your spirit lives on. This body couldn't hold all of you anymore, and so I say rest, rest in peace 🕊️

“ I'm so lost of words 💔 you always had a smile that lit up the room always happy full of laughs and a caring heart gonna be missed here on earth but God needed you more to lighten up his garden sleep in paradise.

“ The first time I met you is when we were celebrating the girls birthdays on the cruise, and from there we had so much fun. I'm glad I was able to share those moments with you 💕
